Chicago, Illinois 60651

Founded in 1978, Chicago Women Government Relations is a bi-partisan organization of more than 150 professionals who work in or with the public sector. The organization is an advocate for women working in the public arena by providing informative programs on current issues, access to key political leaders and networking opportunities with both private and public government affairs specialists. By providing these important connections, women supported by CWGR can achieve their professional, personal, and economic goals.

Please consider renewing your membership today and thereby making a commitment to help expand the influence of women in government and politics.

Renewal at this time will secure your membership through the end of 2010. For your convenience, this form can be used for renewal purposes.
